

Help Us Populate Our Research Catalogue!

When asked how we could improve access to research in our last survey, our members (you!) offered a few suggestions, for example, that NBSPRN could “serve as a depository of references to articles published using NB data” or that we could “compile a database of New Brunswick studies that span social, environmental and cultural issues both historic and contemporary”.

To do this, we have decided to create a “Research Catalogue” of articles related to social and economic policy published by none other than you! Please help us populate our catalogue by providing the following:

Your name:

A list of your research that includes the following (if applicable):

- Title
- Bibliographic Citation
- Keywords
- Abstract
- PDF copy of your article(s)

Please email your research to NBSPRN’s Research Coordinator sasha.caputo@rrps-nb-sprn.ca with the subject line: Research Catalogue.

To submit an article, you can also visit our website and upload them here : <http://www.policyresearchnetwork.ca/en/research-catalogue/> or you are welcome to email your personal bibliography.

The research will be housed within NBSPRN’s data management system and will be available on a case-by-case basis. Once we have received enough submissions to populate our catalogue, NBSPRN plans to create a list of citations grouped by themes to distribute to provincial policy-makers, community organizations and other academics interested in collaboration.

Thank you for your submissions!
